

The right skills? Access the talent you need with us.

With a highly skilled workforce and industry-focused universities, further education colleges and training providers, businesses across Kent and Medway have access to an excellent supply of talent for the jobs of today and tomorrow.

Our free skills service can connect you with the right partners across the education sector in the county to not only assess where you are today but also the skills and training your staff need to thrive. By working together, we can help to boost your business growth.

WHAT WE OFFER

Locate in Kent works closely with a network of education and skills providers as well as recruitment companies and consultants to help businesses find the right skills and people they need.

It can be hard to know where to start and who the right people are to speak to. That's where we excel. Looking to hire the brightest graduates, develop an apprenticeship programme, train or develop your employees, engage with local schools, partner with subject experts or shape the local education offer? In all cases, we can help.

OUR SERVICE TO YOU

Our skills specialist fully understands the local education and skills landscape. He will work with you to develop your talent and skills strategy, assess your support requirements, identify which partners are best placed to help, and be there to get your relationship off to a good start.
